Movement and gathering restrictions had made collaborative trainings difficult to implement. However, we organized pashusakhi training at campus ensuring social distancing and required sanitary measures.

PS during training were sensitized on need of PS existence and how PS can provide doorstep, affordable and accessible services to goat farmers. PS were also sensitized about them being a role model for goat rearing in their village for other goat farmers to follow and draw inspiration from marketing technique of live body weight pricing of goat, which will be utilized to aware goat farmers about fair rate of their livestock to negotiate better with the traders.
